For carriers that have to implement an electronic logging device (ELD) to have their drivers comply with DOT regulations, the technology can be especially challenging. We designed Carmalink to have fault tolerance that allows the system to be more reliable and robust than a bring-your-own-device solutions.

Carmalink takes advantage of dedicated, commercial grade hardware and vertical product integration to give clients a hassle-free experience that allows them to focus on their business instead of fixing technology.

Robust connectivity

Using a physical cable to connect to the vehicle, instead of Bluetooth, eliminates pairing and connectivity issues that other ELD solutions face.

Dual network technology

Instead of relying on one network, our ELD features two LTE connections, running on different cellular networks ensures drivers can always login.

Online driver logs

A dedicated web portal keeps your drivers connected to their logs to make edits, download or annotate entries, from any web browser.

"The drivers are absolutely thrilled with having tablets and the ease of use...the drivers have been showing off the units to some of the other drivers and they're jealous."
